GAGGENAU

Gaggenau appliances are crafted and assembled piece by piece by hand in a process involving many stages in Gaggenau workshops. The most intricate assembly process is that for the large IK 300 fridge-freezer combination. Our ovens also involve countless steps which can only be carried out manually, such as the assembly of fronts and cable looms. Even the new control modules on our 200 series ovens can only be polished manually. Our philosophy demands loving attention to all details. This enables us to keep hold of the things which are valuable and dear to us.

FLEXFORM

When it comes to Exclusive Homes' selection of furniture, only the most exclusive will do. The company displays Ceccotti's, Donghia's, Flexform's and Minotti's luxurious range of Italian furniture, Desiree's stylishly affordable range, the dining table and sideboard experts Do+Ce and Draenert. Also well represented are Presotto and Zalf, which make designer Italian wardrobes, walk-in closets and bedroom furniture. Hailing from Belgium are Limited Edition's handmade carpets, Deknudt Decora's decorative mirrors and Royal Botania's diverse outdoor furniture.

FLEXFORM

Flexform entered the world of products made and designed in Italy just when the extraordinarily innovative cultural era of "Italian design" was dawning. It did so in 1970 with a collection of items created by such great names as Joe Colombo, Cini Boeri, Sergio Asti, and Rodolfo Bonetto. Flexform has grown since then, expanding into a complex family-run group of enormous creative talent, establishing a hallmark style which can be seen in its products and in its approach to research and business. The inventive design work of architect and Antonio Citterio led not only to collections of small armchairs and accessories but also to a range of large sofas – warm islands of comfort consisting of variously sized modular elements that radically changed the concept of socializing and inhabiting a space. There are now many famous collections – Long Island, Groundpiece, Status, Resort – in showrooms right round the world.

Minotti

Minotti has been manufacturing armchairs and sofas for approximately 60 years and throughout its long lifetime the company has consolidated its position on an increasingly more demanding market.

During a period in which all the international market are fiercely competitive and manufacturers work on the basis of different cost factors, the challenges are overcome with quality, history and the appeal of unique products.

Minotti is characterized in terms of productivity by the binomial which protagonists are tradition and technology.
